

ALMOST every housewife owns some very fine laces, linens, draperies, etc., which she uses only on "state" occasions.

Wash them with Ivory Soap and you need not hesitate to use them as often as you wish. Ivory is so pure and mild that it will injure nothing that water itself will not harm. Its quality is in keeping with the choicest fabrics. That is why it washes them so safely and so beautifully.

THE SIDEWALK FARMER

He sat around the country store When spring was in its prime, And talked about the things he'd do When he should find the time. He told about the crops he'd plant, And what would be the yield Of corn and hay and other stuff That grew upon each field. But spring slipped out and summer came. And still he held his place Upon a nail-peg on the porch, A smile upon his face. He sat around the country store When summer days were fair. The nail-peg wore his trousers thin. He swapped it for a chair, And there he sat and told them how When fall should come he'd sow By far the biggest crop of wheat They ever seen him grow. But summer went and fall came on, The Golden glories died; The wind pelt on a cutting edge, And then he moved inside. And there beside the stove he sat When winter days were chill; And listened to the idle chat, But kept on farming still. Each year he does the self-same thing. He does not plant or plow. But seems to take a rare delight In telling others how. Ofttimes his neighbors scoff at him. He seems to think it fair— For still he sets around and does The farming in a chair—Ellis Headlight.

Mrs. Friend Entertains

Monday afternoon, Mrs. Marc L. Friend entertained a number of friends and neighbors in honor of Mrs. J. R. Parsons, who soon leaves our city for her home in Wa-Keeney. The occasion will be one remembered by Mrs. Parsons and those who were there, showing her that she has neighbors and friends who will miss her from their midst. The afternoon was spent in a very pleasant way and refreshments were served consisting of ice cream and cake. Mrs. Friend proved herself a very capable hostess. She has the thanks of those who were present for the many courtesies shown them.—Quinter Advocate.

A banker going home to dinner saw a $10 bill on a curbstone. He picked it up, noticed the number and went home. His wife remarked that the butcher had just sent a bill amounting to $10. The only money he had was the bill he had found, which he gave her and she paid the butcher. The butcher paid it to a farmer for a calf, the farmer to a merchant who paid it to a washerwoman and she owing the banker a note for $10, went to the bank and paid the note. The banker recognized the bill as the one he had found and which at that time had paid $50 worth of debts. Upon a careful examination he found it to be a counterfeit. Now what was lost by the transportation and by whom?—Ex.

PREFERRED LIFE IN JAIL

Chief of Police Found Himself Unable to Get Rid of Guests He Did Not Want.

George Fitch, the Illinois humorist, had his own ideas about prison reform schemes. He expressed his attitude one day while discussing Thomas Mott Osborne's humanitarian efforts.

"Osborne's ideas may work out all right," said Fitch, "but whenever I hear of a warden holding surprise parties and rainbow teas in his penitentiary I think of what happened when Tim Cullinan was chief of police in Junction City, Kan.

"Tim, in fact, was the whole police force. He had eleven prisoners on his hands, and was anxious to get rid of them, for they were a heavy responsibility, Tim having to keep watch over the actions of all Junction City.

"When you feed the critters," he said to the jailer one day, "just accidentally leave the door open and get out of sight for awhile."

"But times were hard and picking up a living outside wasn't so easy. Tim hadn't figured on that, but he did when he came back that evening and found the eleven prisoners still there and seven more who had slipped in while the jailer wasn't looking. Living was better and cheaper inside the jail than outside."

ENDED PERIOD OF INACTION

Before Verdun Attack Soldiers Had a Comparatively Easy Time in the Trenches.

"The Verdun battle ended a very long period of inaction," said Col. Don Nicolas y Cereijo, the Spanish military attaché, at a reception.

"The inaction was, in fact, so marked that an English officer, talking to me while over here on brief leave, said:

"Oh, yes, we were quite comfy in our winter quarters—jolly fine trenches, good bunk holes, quiet Germans. We'd been told that there were only the caretaker and his wife in the German trench opposite ours. He fired the shots while she sent up the flares. "We used to get so fed up with doing nothing," the English officer continued, "that we'd organize every Friday a cleaning dusting, and sections of our men, armed with the very latest and most potent polishes, would go out and polish up the long lines of wire entanglements till they shone like virgin silver in the winter sun."

"Of course," ended Colonel Cereijo, "the Verdun offensive ended all that kind of joking talk."

From One to Another.

A tribute by Homer T. Davies of Concordia: "The Kansas office was favored with a fine visit from Mr. W. C. Palmer, famous all over Kansas as the editor and brilliant paragrapher of the Jewell City Republican. Billy has but one fault—chin whiskers. He has but one diversion from strict attention to business—the annual conference of the Methodist church, of which he is a faithful and consistent member. Billy Palmer is, and has been, an inspiration to many an aspiring young newspaper man. He began his career as a newspaper man as a kid printer in the Republican office, when it was owned by the Muskers. He now owns the paper and the building where it is printed. He has stock in banks and other corporations in his home town. He lives in one of the swell homes of the town—and there's not a dirty dollar in all his possessions—and, better than all, he has the confidence and the respect of his fellow citizens. Billy Palmer has attained success in life."—Kansas City Star.

Miles Standish Tale "Myth."

One by one the good old tales that cheered childhood's happy hours are being taken away from us. First comes Sidney George Fisher and declares the Washington hatchet and cherry tree tradition an "exploded myth." Now comes Rev. Paul Sturtevant Howe, rector of the Church of the Advocate, Cape May, and declares that Miles Standish never sent John Alden to woo Priscilla Mullen. Doctor Howe told the members of the Mayflower society at their annual banquet that he knew there was no foundation for Longfellow's famous poem because he himself was a descendant of John and Priscilla. John Alden "spoke for himself" all the time, said Doctor Howe, and Miles Standish barely knew Priscilla.

Cement Shot From Gun.

In order to waterproof the upstream face of the Elephant Butte dam of the United States reclamation service in New Mexico, a wooden raft was launched in the water of the reservoir formed by the structure and from it a mixture of cement, sand and water was shot on the face of the dam by means of a gun operated by compressed air. The coating was applied in horizontal strips about ten feet high and the length of the dam at water level. The mortar waterproofing coating was applied in four layers, each about one-fourth of an inch thick. Numerous samples taken from the face of the dam showed perfect adhesion of the waterproofing coat to the original concrete.—Engineering Record.

Why Not Face the Facts About Armor Competition?

To the People:

The policy of the United States Government for many years has made real competition in armor-making ineffective.

The Government might have asked the three armor plants for bids and let the entire tonnage to the lowest bidder. That would have made competition effective.

The result of such a course would have been to drive two of the three manufacturers out of business, and leave the country with facilities of only one plant in time of need.

The Government in fact has always asked for bids from the three manufacturers, but no matter what the price quoted, each year's business was divided among them.

Armor makers serve but one customer—the Government, just as a public utility serves but one customer—a community.

The solution of the public utility problem is regulation of rates.

The solution of the armor problem is for the Government to fix the price.

We voluntarily agree to accept any price fixed by the Federal Trade Commission. Isn't acceptance of that offer better than the destruction of an industry built solely to serve the Government?

The Adjustable Knife Weeder

Patented by H. D. Clayton,
January 27, 1903

The Adjustable Knife Weeder has been in use by the farmers of Graham county during the past fifteen years.

It is made to take one row, or two rows, or three rows, the first time over, on all crops planted with the lister.

It is all steel and iron, except the connecting plank.

It is the lightest weeder made, and also the strongest, built to last a life time.

It pulls lighter than any other kind of a weeder.

The knives can be adjusted to any desired position.

The knives can be reversed, doubling their usefulness.

The connecting plank rests on rollers, at both ends, reducing the side friction.

The weight of the driver can be shifted to suit conditions.

The steel runners are easily replaced, if they should ever wear out.

The "V" hitch controls the machine perfectly.

Its open construction gives it light weight.

Its complete system of bracing makes it extra strong.

The knives can be kept sharp cheaper than you can buy oil and grease for wheels and dics.

It has no boxing nor spindles to wear out.

It does away with costly repair bills.

It will get the weeds at any stage of their growth.

It does perfect work in heavy weeds that no other weeder can handle.

It leaves the ground in the best of condition for any succeeding cultivation.

It does not throw the soil away from the corn.

It does not pitch the dirt up to the center of the ridge, and make your horses lame to walk on it the next time over.

It does not roll the dirt over and over, to lose its moisture in a dry time.

It leaves the row in better shape, and the ridge in better shape, than any other machine made.

It is not only a weeder, but a cultivator as well. Even if you have no weeds, it will do better work "the first time over" than any other machine.

It is the right thing in the right place for "the first time over" in all listed crops.

It was invented by a Graham county farmer fifteen years ago, and now a small factory, equipped with special machinery, is making them at Hill City.

It is manufactured and sold by H. D. Clayton, Hill City, Kansas. Write for prices and further information. adv. 13 1f.
